Hunting Season

Season: April 15 - September 30

In the early months of the Spring, there are better chances to see higher number of animals, as the vegetation is not thick or high to cover the deer. Due to the solid deer population multiple shooting opportunities may arise daily.

In the middle of summer, the rutting season provides the sophisticated 'stalk and call' hunting method, giving a chance to see the oldest and most elusive mature bucks with a wide variety of antler sizes and formations.

Trophy Size

The average representative trophies weight 250 - 300g, and the world-class trophy category is 500+g. Plain agricultural lands produce larger trophies, while the hilly and forest covered areas, where the hunt is more challenging, have smaller ones.

Hunting Areas

Our Roe Buck hunts take place in four different subregions in Eastern Hungary and the Western part of Transylvania, Romania. All of these hunting areas are approximately a 2-3 hour drive from the nearest airport. The terrains are mostly plain and sometimes hilly, with 20-30% covered by forests and 70-80% by agricultural lands. Each of our hunting areas cover approximately 25-50,000 acres.

Hunting Methods

The hunting areas are easily accessible. During the hunt we use 4x4 pick up trucks for looking for bucks and covering greater areas. You can also hunt from high seats at deer frequented meadows and agricultural fields. This can be combined with spot and stalk techniques.

Adopting to the deer daily habits, we hunt during the morning and afternoon hours mainly, and spend the midday hours with having a hearty lunch and visiting local tourist spots.

Recommended calibers: 7x64, 30.06, 300 WinMag, 8x57

Expected shooting distance: 80-250 meters

Physical hardness of this hunt: 2-3/10
